And remember that recycling your solvents can further reduce your costs!

X83 and Xylene Microphotograph Comparison

Portal, Liver 20X – Tissue processed with Xylene

Portal, Liver 20X – Tissue processed with X83

- 1) When read in blind study fashion, board-certified pathologists could not distinguish between slides cleared with Xylene and slides cleared with X83.
- 2) "Hematoxylin and Eosin-stained sections cleared with X83 were indistinguishable from those cleared with Xylene." Daphne Vasconcelos, D.V.M., Ph.D, D.A.B.T., Battelle Memorial Institute, Columbus, Ohio.
- 3) "We have tested the new solvent in the tissue processor and the coverslip in our laboratory. In a review of duplicate sections of autopsy material processed the conventional way and with the new solvent we found that the quality of the sections and the staining was equivalent to, and indistinguishable between these two methods." David Hicks, M.D., Pathology, Cleveland Clinic, Cleveland, Ohio.
